

Take a short trip to discover Japanese craftsmanship in a chauffeur-driven vehicle from the Imperial Hotel

Approximately one hour from Tokyo, Yokohama's Totsuka Ward is known as the home of some of Japan's most famous ceramics. OKURA ART CHINA, INC. was founded in the Kamata area of Tokyo in 1919 by Magobei Okura and his son Kazuchika, but the company headquarters and factory are located in Totsuka today.

Embodying the company's founding philosophy of "creating the finest chinaware," the ceramics pieces crafted by OKURA ART CHINA, INC. continue to earn global admiration. Praised for its whiteness, hardness and smoothness, Okura China has long been considered art exemplifying Japanese culture and tradition. It is used at the Imperial Household, the State Guesthouse for VIPs from Abroad, and Japan's finest hotels, including the Imperial Hotel, Tokyo.

Intricate hand-painted details

This plan lets guests visit the factory where these beautiful artwork-like dishes are produced to see how they are made and decorated.

After watching a video about the history of OKURA ART CHINA, INC., guests can visit the production site in person. Feeling the heat near the tunnel kiln that maintains a temperature of approximately 1,460°C for 48 hours and seeing artists create vibrant and intricate paintings by hand on the porcelain's surface is an unforgettable experience. A company staff member will even answer any questions about the manufacturing process or painting techniques. And after the tour, guests can browse the company's rare collection of ceramics and enjoy free coffee served in beautiful porcelain tableware.
